

Self-Understanding and Status of the Institute

Who we are, how it came about, and where we truly stand today.

Internal Version · As of June 10, 2026

Richard Frederic Bertossa · Geneva Institute for ASI Resilience

ASiresilience.org

WHAT WE ARE

The Institute for ASI Resilience is a non-commercial initiative. It develops and represents a realistic position on artificial superintelligence, neither doomsaying nor a promise of salvation, and makes preparation for the transition concrete: for the individual person and their circle, and for society. It is the research and testing body behind the book Freedom After Superintelligence.

HOW IT CAME ABOUT

Out of urgency, not ambition. When it became clear how seriously the people who build these systems take their own timelines, I looked for practical, structural preparation and found nothing beyond the image of the bunker. The institute is the answer to that. A necessary actor, not a competing research operation. The work stands on moral obligation — to my family, to my clients, and to everyone in a similar situation.

THE HONEST STATE OF THINGS

We are young and still building, founded in April 2026, and the institute is only now constituting itself. A non-commercial initiative, the name freely chosen, the association not formally registered. We are a small, geographically distributed circle that works together asynchronously, with Geneva as the seat of the brand and members among others in Vienna and Colombia. The institute is deliberately and visibly separate from anything commercial. This is not a flaw but the honest situation, and it is exactly this sobriety that is part of its credibility.

WHO IS JOINING

We are actively seeking people who will get involved and show commitment, as contributors, reviewers or supporters. The real momentum will come with the book launch, which will bring the institute reach and inflow. This state of affairs is stated frankly: we are building the structure now, and the launch is the lever that will carry it.

WHAT IS ALREADY IN PLACE AND RUNNING

The position is worked out and citable: the Decoupling Thesis and the four doors. There is a whitepaper family in German; the English one is under construction. The website carries the method, the evidence, the situation picture, the demand, and the way to get involved. The book is the public face. Instead of asking for agreement, we ask for refutation. And professional outreach is already under way: we approach academic institutes and authorities and invite them to test and refute the theses, or to work with us.

WHAT COMES NEXT

The decision on formal registration. The living version at freedomafterai.com. Broader outreach to academia, authorities and civil society. The building of team and structure, step by step, without claiming to be further along than we are.

We describe ourselves as we are. The institute's authority does not rest on size or a seal, but on the quality of the arguments, and on the fact that we claim nothing that cannot withstand scrutiny.